

European Cetacean Society Copyright Statement

The Author(s) represents that he/she is the sole proprietor of the Work; that it does not infringe any existing copyright; that it has not heretofore been published; and that to the best of his/her knowledge it contains no libellous or other unlawful matter. The Author(s) will hold harmless the European Cetacean Society against any claim, demand, or recovery finally sustained in any proceedings brought against the European Cetacean Society by reason of violation of any proprietary right or copyright, or any unlawful matter contained in the Work.

If previously copyrighted material is included in the Work, the Author(s) hereby confirms that permission for its reuse has been received from the original copyright holder. A copy of such permission should be sent to the Editor of the European Cetacean Society.

The Author(s) of the Work, his/her heirs, assigns, administrators, and executors maintain the exclusive copyright for the Work and any and all rights of whatever kind or nature now or hereafter provided by the copyright laws of relevant countries, in all languages and forms of communication. However, the Author(s) of the Work, his/her heirs, assigns, administrators, and executors hereby grant to the European Cetacean Society the non-exclusive rights to reproduce the content in its entirety as part of European Cetacean Society materials in any format, including but not limited to print and electronic media, or any other form, the Work without further notification, provided that authorship is noted appropriately.